

ABSTRACT

An electrochemical detection system which specifically detects selected nucleic acid segments is described. The system utilizes biological probes which are complementary to and specifically hybridize with selected nucleic acid segments in order to generate a measurable current when an amperometric potential is applied. The electrochemical signal can be quantified.